ON STEADY INCREASE

Receipts From Auto Registrations
Much Larger Than a Year Ago

Maine's receipts from motor vehicle registrations and operators' licenses the first 10 months of this year increased $276,557 over those of a similar period a year ago, the Secretary of State's department reports.

Receipts from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 this year totaled $3,795,932 compared to $3,519,375 during a corresponding period in 1936. An increase of 6157 in operators' licenses was recorded by the department.

NATIONAL MILK WEEK

PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

There are many vital reasons why the people of the State of Maine should be interested in the production and distribution of milk. Shipments of Maine milk to Boston and other New England cities have averaged for the last ten years a value of $12,000,000 a year and the industry is most important with 180,000 milking cows and heifers on Maine farms in 1937 and a farm value of all dairy products estimated at $15,800,000 in 1936.

Maine is a forward state in dairy farming with the milk supply thoroughly safeguarded by State laws and local ordinances, with the 5000 dairies supplying Maine cities and towns inspected annually and with most Maine cities getting a supply of milk testing over four percent butter fat and very low bacterial count.

As milk is necessary to the health of both young and old, supplying important vitamins, and at the very reasonable prices asked, is the cheapest of all foods when all its nutritional and medicinal properties are considered; and in order to promote the use of more milk on the farm, in the towns and in the cities and to aid the dairying interests of our State

I, Lewis O. Barrows, Governor of Maine, do hereby designate the week of Nov. 14 to 20 as National Milk Week and ask our people to co-operate in its observance.

(Signed) LEWIS O. BARROWS,
Governor.

P. T. A. Applauded Talk By Health Officer—Drive Is Going Strong

A half hundred of the faithful gathered last night at the High School auditorium in spite of a myriad of other stellar attractions and enjoyed one of those well rounded programs that has sustained interest nearly two decades in the Rockland Parent-Teacher Association.

Dr. James P. Kent, Health Officer for the City of Rockland, presented a remarkable talk on the intensely important subject of "Public Health." He traced the struggle of man to better conditions of his surroundings progressively through the ages to the present and discussed briefly the seldom publicized but vital work done for the citizens by the Department of Health and Welfare and Public

MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF OYSTER BOATS

The prospect that a million-dollar boat building contract might fall into the lap of the Morse Shipbuilding Corporation, as told exclusively by The Courier-Gazette Saturday, was learned with much enthusiasm at Thomaston and vicinity, and it was the unanimous opinion that the contract could not fall into better hands.

In yesterday's newspapers the Associated Press had the following on the subject:
"The Morse Shipyards in this town looked forward today to a possible million dollar contract if a pair of $500,000 oyster draggers now being built 'prove satisfactory.'"

"A large concern which operates a fleet of draggers was reported planning to build 20 boats similar to those being constructed here and 'might award the contract to the local concern.'"

"The boats now under construction are being built for the Bluepoint Oyster Co. of West Saville, N. Y. They will be completed in the spring and will be used in the Chesapeake Bay oyster fishery."

"Frames at the new craft, which measure 63 feet in length with a 20-foot beam, have been set up. The boats will be powered by Diesel engines and will be added to a fleet of 30 boats."

"Commissioner of Fisheries Rodney E. Feyler said that the fame of Maine boats is growing and that he looks for increasing activity in fish boat building in Maine yards."

YANKEE SCOUT WAS HERE

Rockland had an interesting visitor over the weekend in the person of "Barrington Bill" Hayes, scout for the New York Yankees, winners of the world's baseball championship.

Only 19 years of age "Barrington Bill" developed a canny tact for "picking 'em." He spent a full season around the Yankee farms, and with the champions during their victorious campaign and the World Series. He has but recently returned from the West Coast, where he was the house guest for two weeks of Joe DiMaggio, the famous Yankee slugger.

He was no sooner home than Foster's Daily Democrat of Dover, N. H., signed him up to write a series of "inside baseball" articles, and these should be of great interest as he was in a position, not only to view the league games from close range but to be behind the door when history was making of which the fans knew naught.

He managed the Dover Orioles for three seasons and the team won the amateur championship of Southeastern New Hampshire. He is now getting ready for a fourth cup.

In Rockland he was the guest of Miss Felice Perry at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Perry, 18 Grove street.

Fall Flower Show

Some Details of the Interesting Event To Be Held November 16

Preparations are going forward for the fall flower show which will be held in the Tower room of the Community Building Tuesday, Nov. 16, Thomaston, Camden, Rockland gardens combining. There are seven classes and the gardeners are: Wreaths sprays and garlands, Miss Charlotte Buffum; winter bouquets, Mrs. Elsa Sonntag and Mrs. Jane O'Neil; centerpieces for Thanksgiving or Christmas, Mrs. Maud Smith; Terrariums and dish gardens, Mrs. Alice Jameson; club entry for whom the display, Mrs. Mary Southard; club entry for centerpiece or dinner table, Mrs. Maud Smith. Mrs. A. T. Thurston is general chairman.

These classes are to be on display in the club room, left, on the first floor. All entries must be in not later than 12 o'clock on Tuesday. Every person who attends will have the opportunity to vote on all seven classes. All entries will be by number only, and only the person receiving the entry will know by whom the display was entered. This way of judging and entering the committee feel sure it will please everyone. Admission is free to all club members; 25 cents to others. General public invited.

The doors will be open at 1.30 for inspection of the displays. At 3 o'clock Mrs. A. R. Benedict will demonstrate the making of wreaths and holiday decorations with our native greens.

Cast Is Announced

"Big Hearted Herbert" Selected For the Senior Class Play

"Big Hearted Herbert" is to be presented by the class of '38 R.H.S., as the annual Senior Class play at the High School auditorium Dec. 9-10.

Herbert Kalness is a self-made business man who insists that his family must be brought up in the plain traditions. When his daughter becomes engaged to a Harvard man and his wife has not only ice cream but a Harvard man to dinner, Herbert nearly goes out of his mind with rage. Herbert's home becomes safe for Harvard men only after his family has embarrassed him by embracing his plain tradition literally.

Opening Session Of Spiritual Recovery Crusade Greeted By Great Throng

The Spiritual Recovery Crusade got away with a fine start Sunday night, when more than 1600 people crowded the great auditorium of the Community Building. According to the statement of the caretaker, Sunday night's crowd was the largest since the building was completed.

The enthusiastic response of the people in singing the evangelistic hymns, both new and old, and their earnest attention to the message of Charlie Taylor, the preacher, indicates that Knox County is due for a great spiritual awakening. The preparatory work of Dad Taylor, with the co-operation of the ministers and laymen of the churches, was fully rewarded in the great opening service.

It is easy to see that music is a major feature with the Taylor brothers in winning the people to their work. Laurie Taylor's piano solos, night by night and his special musical programs on Friday of this week, and Thursdays thereafter will be a fine musical treat to the people of this County. He is an unusual musician who has received acclaim in practically every large city in the United States and on two trips to England. It is hoped that none of the musically minded people will miss this fine treat.

Evangelist Charlie Taylor preached Sunday night on the story of the four men who carried the paralytic to Jesus. He described with a good deal of vivid imagination how those men carried this man on his bed to the door of the house where Jesus was preaching and, unable to get him in, climbed up on the roof and tore up a hole large enough to lower the bed in front of the Master while He was preaching. Jesus forgave the man his sins and healed his body and he walked out whole before them all and they said "We never saw it on this fashion." "The great point in this story," said the evangelist, "is the fact that Jesus saw their faith."

It was the faith of the four men that made possible the redemption and healing of the sick man. Their faith was visible in its practical sympathy. They not only felt sorry for the man but that sympathy gave them the energy to carry him to Jesus. We must have that same spirit in these meetings, for we still believe that Christ is able to say, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." We must carry our friends and neighbors in the arms of our faith into the presence of Christ, and this meeting in this building is a fine opportunity for every Christian in Knox County to demonstrate that sympathy. Again, the faith of these men was visible in its unity. They kept together.

In this Crusade for righteousness, the churches of this County are to be united in one common purpose to bring Jesus Christ as a life changing Saviour to the people of this place who do not know Him. That is one of the finest contributions the churches can make to the spiritual life of the County. We urge every church member of every denomination who loves Christ, to join us in this work.

"But the important thing is, the faith of these four men was a victorious faith. They got what they went after. The fact is, they got more, for they went to see the man healed, and his sins were forgiven, too. God always gives more than we ask if we go in faith believing. Three weeks from today, we hope that all the people of this County will say, as they did in Capernaum, 'We never saw it on this fashion.' "Mr. Taylor concluded.

Tonight is Sunday School night. Any Sunday School class wishing a reserved section may phone 126 and have seats reserved for this evening. Charles Taylor's subject will be, "What Do You Know?" Wednesday night is Church Night, when all members of the co-operating churches are asked to be in attendance if possible. The evangelist will preach on "Asleep in Church." At all services, Laurie Taylor will play special piano selections.

"A DAY OF HAPPINESS"

Gov. Barrows So Characterizes Armistice Day—Rockland's Plans

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows said yesterday that the celebration of Armistice Day should be "one of happiness because we are at peace with the nations of the world."

His statement was made in a proclamation designating Thursday as Armistice Day and urging Maine citizens to "co-operate in its observance by display of the National Flag."

Simultaneously, the Governor ordered all State House offices closed that day, expressing hope that all employees "will enjoy a pleasant holiday."

In his proclamation, Barrows said observance of the day should be one of "appreciation of the valor of our soldiers, our sailors and our marines; of recognition of the need of preparedness and of real satisfaction in the splendid record that has been achieved by our ex-service men who have been as loyal and as devoted to our Nation in peace as they were dauntless and self-sacrificing in war."

To its list of officially recognized heroes Winslow-Holbrook Post, American Legion, will on Armistice Day, add the name of Lieut. Col. Walter H. Butler. The triangle at the junction of North Main street, Cedar street and Broadway has been named in his honor, and brief exercises will be held there next Thursday forenoon.

The parade will form in front of the Legion hall on Limerock street at 10.30 a. m. Armistice Day and under the direction of the parade marshal, Col. Ralph W. Brown, will march in the following order:

Rockland Band
Battery E, 240th C. A. Regiment
Cars containing Mayor Leforest A. Thurston, relatives of the late Private Arthur E. Winslow and the late Lieut. Albert D. Holbrook, and the late Lieut. Col. Walter H. Butler.
American Legion Posts of Knox County.
Auxiliary of Winslow-Holbrook Post.
Sons of the American Legion.
Members of the Fire Department (marching).
Other Patriotic Organizations.

The order of march will be: Up Limerock street to Union, to Park, to Main, rededication of Winslow-Holbrook Square, corner of Main and Park streets; up Main to North Main, to the triangle formed by North Main,

Cedar and Broadway, dedication of triangle in honor of Lieut. Commander Walter H. Butler, who was the first commander of Winslow-Holbrook Post, and instrumental in its being given the title of No. 1.

At Winslow-Holbrook Square and the Butler Triangle there will be brief addresses by Mayor Thurston and Department Commander Hector G. Staples, and prayer by Chaplain Corwin H. Olds.

In the evening there will be a ball in the Community Building, with music by an 11-piece orchestra, and a de luxe beano game with turkeys as prizes.

SOME GLOBETROTTER

Franklin D. Roosevelt has become the nation's most traveled President. His arrival in Washington last Friday ended the eighth 600-mile round trip to his mother's estate this year and raised his aggregate travel mileage since he became Chief Executive to 114,008. This barely passed the 114,000 miles covered by William Howard Taft from 1909 to 1913.

THE SIMPLE THINGS OF LIFE ARE LOVELIEST

The simple things of life are loveliest:
A fire on the hearth, the lamp-light's glow;
The hour when the heart finds peace and rest;
A mother's lullaby crooned soft and low;

The wayside blossom, tiny woodland stream
That sings a happy lulling roundelay;
Soft billows clouds that drift as in a dream;
The hush of dawn; the sun's last flaming ray.

The friendly trees that give of fruit and shade,
The tendrils of the grape—like clinging hands;
O there are scenes more gorgeously arrayed,
But these the heart has known and understands.

Mankind has reached the pinnacle of power,
Has conquered land and sky and ocean's crests
And yet, when comes the heart's deep, prayerful hour,
He knows the simple things are lowliest.
—Margaret E. Bruner.

The next time the wind roars around the tower of the First Baptist Church at 50 miles per hour, just climb the stairs and two ladders to the operating deck of the Howard Clock and find out why the Butler Memorial Clock gets a bit out of its stride during heavy gales. Like all such high structures subject to the full force of the wind, the Baptist tower sways to an easily appreciable degree under the heavy pressure. The result is that the heavy pendulum of the great clock, extending down through nearly two stories wavers and trembles in its stately beat with the result that a slight difference occurs in the length of its arc and in the course of hours the sum of these differences may make minutes of difference in the time record. Just for the scientific interest of the thing, make the climb next gale with City Electrician Pinkham and after that blame the wind instead of the clock.

Luncheon will be served at noon, and supper will be served for those who wish to stay to attend the Taylor meeting. Visitors will please furnish sweets.

In Superior Court

Illegal possession of intoxicating liquor brought to Mrs. Emma Swanson of Vinalhaven yesterday a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $300, with four months additional in default of payment. Two cases of single sale charged against Mrs. Swanson were placed on file.

Complaints against Mrs. Swanson had sent sheriffs to the island on several occasions. Justice Fisher warned her yesterday that if she continued liquor selling she would be sentenced on the cases which had been placed on file.

Albert Swanson pleaded guilty to a charge of single sale and was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $300, with four months additional if the fine is not paid. This sentence was suspended, and Swanson was placed on probation for two years.

An item in Saturday's court news stated that the case of Sea View Garage Inc. vs. National Cash Register Co. was defaulted for $165,000 which was an error. The amount should have been $165.

The case of Joseph Soffayer vs. Dudley Wolfe was listed for trial yesterday morning and an imposing array of legal talent was on hand, but plaintiff took a voluntary non-suit, on the ground that some of his witnesses were unable to be present at this term. Raymond Fellows of Bangor and C. S. Roberts of Rockland were present for the plaintiff and Leonard Pierce and Herbert Connell of the firm of Cook, Hutchinson, Pierce & Connell of Portland were present for the defendant.

The case of the State vs. John W. Stevens of Rockland for single sale was not proessed for lack of evidence. Charles Nye of Rockland, arraigned on an indictment for assault with a dangerous weapon, pleaded guilty to assault. The dangerous weapon charge was not proessed. Nye was sentenced to six months in jail and sentence was suspended and the respondent was placed on probation for two years.

John H. Breen of Rockland pleaded guilty to the charge of single sale and was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and costs and to serve three months in jail, and to serve three months additional in default of payment of fine and costs.

John Lanigan of Rockland was sentenced to 60 days in jail for intoxication.

Baxter Is Opposed

To Including Mt. Katahdin In National Park — Has Other Plans

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

"A dispatch from a newspaper correspondent in Washington referring to my recent conference with the National Park Service authorities has just been published in a Maine paper. The dispatch states that it is understood that Baxter may relax his former intense opposition to making any part of the Katahdin area a National Park."

"It is true that I went to Washington a few days ago and had the conference referred to, but the dispatch is so misleading that I wish to correct it.

"I explained the Katahdin situation of the National Park authorities and told them definitely that I opposed and shall continue to oppose any move that seeks to take Katahdin from the State of Maine and include it in a National Park. Also I explained the Trust that was created by the Laws of Maine, Chapter 3, 1933, under which the State accepted the gift of the mountain, and explained my reasons for my opposition to the Brewster bill. Moreover I stated that in my opinion, while I am living as well as after I am dead, no State Legislature would ever consent to breaking this trust created in good faith by the representatives of the People of Maine and myself.

"It appears that somebody has been telling the National Park authorities that Maine people do not appreciate the gift of the mountain and would like to be rid of it, and that the State is unwilling to take proper care of it. All this I denied, and I showed the people in Washington that within the present year the State has appropriated $2500 for the care of the mountain in the State Park.

"I explained to the Park authorities that I have interesting plans for the future of Katahdin and asked them to keep away from this area. I told them there were other forest regions in Maine such as Washington County and the mountainous areas of Franklin, Somerset and Oxford Counties where they could establish several fine National Parks without asking the people of Maine to break their Trust.

"The National Park Service people in Washington were cordial toward me and listened attentively. They spoke most approvingly of my interest in State Parks and what I had done for Maine. They are high minded and reasonable men and whatever may have been told them before my visit, they now have no doubt as to my position.

"If the dispatch above referred to should go unchallenged by me the people of Maine would be led to believe that I have weakened. I certainly have not, and Katahdin will be Held by State of Maine Forever In Trust for the People of Maine." See Laws of Maine, 1933, Chapter 3 from which this quotation is taken."

The Sewing Circle met recently with Mrs. W. S. Grant.

SOUTH HOPE

Daniel J. Bowley is the lucky hunter in this section. Since the gunning and trapping season opened, he has killed several partridge and this week he shot a red fox and a spikehorn buck deer. He shot the fox and deer only three days apart. His trap line so far has presented him five pretty "stink cats" commonly called skunks.

Peary Merrifield has caught several raccoons, and expects to get mink soon, as he found a trapping ground for them last fall during which season he received over $100 for his mink and coon catch.

M. H. Bowley shot at a fox recently but was not as lucky as his son Daniel. The writer of these lines knows by experience, and has also been told by other hunters that there is a great deal of room around a running fox and that is where the biggest part of the lead goes.

TENANT'S HARBOR

Miss Ruth Barter, accompanied by Miss Marion Wallace, recently went to New York on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Ex-Alderman George Nichols and Mrs. Nichols of Everett, Mass., are spending two weeks at their summer cottage.

Work has been completed on the Wallston road.

Two large flocks of wild geese were seen recently circling over the harbor. They appeared very tired and finally alighted in Georges River.

Mrs. Keppel Hall of Port Clyde has returned to her New York home.

Killing Humanely

A Visitor To the Schools Tells How To "Put Away" Animals

Lucie F. Gilbert, who is visiting schools in this locality under the auspices of the Commissioner of Education for Maine, sends a bulletin on "How to Kill Animals Humanely"—a timely subject inasmuch as this is the season for killing hogs and pigs.

The leaflet, which is issued by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, reads in part:

"In killing a horse, the bullet should be fired so as to penetrate the brain. This spot may be determined by drawing an imaginary line from the center of each eye to the base of the ear on the opposite side of the head. The intersection of the lines will give one the exact point. A single shot should be sufficient to cause death. Horses shot too high in the head generally fall over, while those shot too low spring forward and upward. The natural tendency will be to shoot too low. The pistol or gun should be placed about an inch from the head and inclined a trifle downward, pointed in line parallel with line of neck. A 44 calibre bullet should be used for a horse or for cattle. A shot is far better than a blow.

"The spot at which the bullet should be aimed may be clearly located by drawing an imaginary line from the center of each eye to base of cow's horn on the opposite side of the head. It is where the lines intersect. A trifle above is better than below the spot. Point gun in a line parallel with line of neck.

"Calves should be stunned, whether killed to put them out of suffering or for the purposes of food. The spot to be aimed at is the same as in the case of the cow. If shooting is employed, place the muzzle an inch from the forehead, half-way between the level of the eyes and the top of the head.

"For hornless sheep, place the muzzle in the hollow where the horn grows, and point the pistol towards the opposite shoulder. Steady the head by holding the nose, not the neck. In the case of horned sheep place the muzzle well inside the depression in the skull and fire through the head from side to side.

"No food animals are killed more brutally than swine. Seized, stabbed, then allowed to stagger about till they drop from loss of blood—this is the farmer's ordinary custom with them. It is an entirely false impression that pigs will not bleed thoroughly after being stunned. The trouble in this respect occurs, if it does occur, because of the failure to cut deeply enough through the mass of fat and flesh to sever completely all the blood vessels.

"There is only one humane way to kill the pig. The shot to be fired is not between the eyes, but upon a spot in the center of the head three or four inches above the eyes. Destroy all consciousness by dropping the poor victim with a bullet from a small rifle. A bullet properly placed with any of the small-calibre rifles, say those using .3d or .22 long cartridges, will drop them instantly. Draw two lines, in imagination one from each eye to the base of the opposite ear, and where they cross is the spot at which to shoot. Be sure to point gun downward, so as to pierce brain.

"The brain is small and situated at a point above the eyes, and in front of the middle of the ears as they hang downward. After shooting any animal, wait three or four minutes before using the knife. Be sure consciousness has ceased.

"No species of animal shows such remarkable divergences in the structure of the head as the dog. The spot to be aimed at is at the side of the head and in front of the ear. Place the pistol or gun within an inch of the point indicated and shoot downward so that the bullet will go through the brain into or toward the neck. Do not shoot too low or directly in the middle, on account of thick bones. A small dog may be chloroformed according to directions for chloroforming a cat. The ideal way to kill a cat is by hypodermic needle in the hand of a

MY GRANDMOTHER (For The Courier-Gazette)
A kindly old lady whom I love very dear.
Inspires good thoughts—creates hearty cheer.
She never dons lavender and never old "lace,"
And she's not the kind to be "put in her place."

She's always and ever on the go,
And she can tell you about the latest show
She's here there and everywhere,
And doesn't have the slightest care.

If it's fishing, games or hiking,
For all of these she has a liking;
She cooks and bakes and sews,
And forever is mending someone's clothes.

Never gives up, but tries again—
Always happy in sunshine or rain.
Maybe it seems a trifle queer,
But not if you knew my grandmother dear.

Too Ashamed of Her Skin to Go to Party

Skin blemishes are aggravated by constipation. Just as it can cause loss of appetite, nervousness, weakness. Dr. F. M. Edwards treated hundreds of women for constipation and frequently noted remarkable improvement in their appearance. For his treatment he used a purely vegetable compound—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is gentle, yet peculiarly effective because it increases the bile flow without shocking the intestinal system.

If you have a pale face, sallow skin, blemishes, all you may need is this mild aid in relieving constipation. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are on sale at all druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

skilled veterinarian. Any other person should use chloroform.

"Place the cat in a box that, when closed, will be practically air tight, and large enough to hold her comfortably. Then put in the box a sponge or piece of flannel cloth saturated with about two ounces of chloroform. If you cannot obtain a box or a wash boiler, the cat may be placed in a sack or a bag, the head being allowed to protrude, and apply over the mouth and nostrils a sponge or flannel saturated with from two to four tablespoonsful of chloroform, renewing the chloroform till the cat falls asleep. Keep box tightly covered 12 hours before removing cat.

"The best way to destroy young kittens is to place them in a sack or bag with some weight in it heavy enough to sink it, and submerge the bag in a pail of lukewarm water. Keep them there at least an hour.

"A small box, a half ounce of chloroform and a bit of sponge or flannel are all that are needed to humanely kill a sick or injured bird.

"Before boiling a live lobster or crab, pierce the brain with a sharp knife, or else put in lukewarm water until motionless and unconscious. Then plunge into furiously boiling water, submerge completely and cover tightly."

FRIENDSHIP

Clarence H. Miller

Clarence Herbert Miller, 78, whose death occurred in Augusta, was born May 6, 1859 in Waldoboro on son of Frank and Angelette Miller, the eldest of 14 children. He was united in marriage in 1880 to Sarah F. Gross of Waldoboro and shortly after the wedding, the happy couple came to this community where they passed the remainder of their lives.

Mr. Miller, whose occupation was that of a steward, followed the sea and was employed as cook for 15 years by Capt. Martin Leeman of Round Pond. At one time he was connected with the Royal Order of Moose in Waldoboro, the Masonic Lodge and the Knights of Pythias of Friendship. He was a member of the Methodist Church and of the board of trustees, and was a regular attendant as long as health permitted, as well as a generous contributor to its support.

Those of his family who preceded him in death were his wife, one son, John T. Miller; two grandchildren, Sadie O. Stetson and Pauline V. Oliver; six brothers and sisters; and his parents.

Survivors are: one daughter, Gertrude Bell of this town; one son, Herbert C. Miller of Thomaston; three sisters, Mrs. Belle Hall of Damarscott; Mrs. Ella F. Wallace of Waldoboro; Mrs. Bernice Osier of Rockland; four brothers, Almon of Vinalhaven, Frank of Bath, Claude, Waldoboro and Bedford of this town; seven grandchildren, Llewellyn H. Oliver, Ira L. Oliver of this place, Earl C. Miller, Willard G. Miller, Grace G. Miller, Amy M. Bracey and Merlyn Miller, all of Thomaston; two great-grandchildren, Rachel Stetson and Leonard Stetson also several nieces and nephews; and a host of friends and neighbors. He was a cousin of the late Judge Frank Miller of Rockland.

Funeral services were held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Oliver, attended by many friends and relatives. Rev. William Lewis, pastor of the Methodist Church officiated. A beautiful display of floral pieces gave evidence of the affectionate regard for the deceased. The Methodist choir sang the favorite selections, "Beulah Land" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" accompanied by Mrs. Amy Stebbins, piano and Arthur MacFarland, violin.

Bearers were Eugene Brown, Orrin Burns, Clyde Brown, Zenas Lawry and William Lawry. Interment was in the family lot in the village cemetery, with committal services at the church yard.

Those from out of town who attended the services were: Mrs. Bernice Osier of Rockland, Claude Miller and son, Ella Wallace, Thelma Benner, Harry Miller, Mrs. Colby Wallace and son, Orrin Wallace, Mrs. Ruby Burns, Mrs. Nellie Wallace of Waldoboro; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller of Thomaston; and Lemuel Miller of Cushing.

The Opening Gun

"Them Durned Skippers" Keelhauled "Goose's Ganders" At Vinalhaven

The opening gun of the 1937 bowling season exploded in the Cascade Alleys last Thursday night and while to the victorious Skippers it sounded like a Big Bertha to the losing Ganders it was more or less of a dud.

The old Goose had been pointing himself toward this game by some judicious practice on the shining lanes and although he acquitted himself very creditably some of his companions fell by the wayside. Take for instance the usually reliable Link Sanborn. Only the night before he had cuffed out a neat 117 for a single string, and clad in a nifty bowling costume of big plaid shirt, knickers, leggings and moccasins and well fortified with tobacco, he came prepared to do something pretty big. But he did nothing pretty and certainly he did nothing big. But Captain Goose says Link will be right back next time and have the laugh on the other boys.

The game itself was close and exciting up to the latter part of the last string, when the Ganders' offense went to pieces and they seemed to be dying on their feet. The Ganders had won the first string by 13, which must have been an unlucky number for them, for the Skippers came right back and took the second by four pins, and from then on to the break when the Skippers got three spares in a row it was nip and tuck. After that it was just a question of how bad the defeat would be.

During the heat of battle, while "P. M." drew was on the platform and just as he had delivered his second ball, all the lights in the alley suddenly went out. The "P. M.s" had just hit the pins and he claimed he had made a spare as did some of the other bystanders whose eyesight was not so good. But after the lights came on, lo! and behold, there was a solitary pin standing where the P. M. had been bowling. He claimed the Ganders had bribed the pin boy to set the pin up while he was groping around in the dark, trying to get the lights on, and would only be satisfied when he made the pin boy cross his heart and swear he did not set the pin up again.

Subbing for Vic Shields was "Uncle" Harry Young from East Boston, and he proved a tower of strength for the Ganders, even if old age is getting in its licks on him.

As Skipper "Skip" Arey had a previous engagement, Skipper Les Dyer was pressed into service and his picturesque and pungent language lent a great deal of color (deep sulphurous blue) to the evening's entertainment. Next week the boys will foregather at Link Sanborn's camp on Indian Creek and there partake of refreshment in the form of hot boiled lobster with fixings, cooked under the eagle eye of Chief-in-Chief E. M. Hall, thereby setting a fine example of home consumption of a home production.

Following is the first fall of the fall season, wherein the Ganders look like the last rose of summer.

Farm Woman Whose Bravery Helped Save Four Gets Award

WITH photographers' lights flashing and an announcer describing the scene over a radio hookup, a blushing Wisconsin farm woman stood in the executive offices of Governor Philip F. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and received a certificate for life saving awarded by the Light for Life Foundation, national safety organization.

The recipient of the award, one of ten made every year, was Mrs. W. J. Murtha, of Baldwin, Wis., who was responsible for saving the lives of four persons.

Last March 11, Mrs. Murtha, awakening to see if her children were covered, saw a light flashing from a point about a quarter mile away. It occurred to her instantly that an automobile had tried to negotiate the road leading to her house, which was covered with ice, and had broken through. Mrs. Murtha awakened her husband and they ran to the scene.

Shivering on top of an automobile, the car submerged in ice and icy water, were a neighbor, his wife and their two children. Their calls for help had not been heard. Finally the father began signalling with a flashlight—and Mrs. Murtha saw its beams.

Mrs. W. J. Murtha receiving a Light for Life Foundation life saving certificate from Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, in the Governor's office at Madison. The children are Mrs. Murtha's—Warren, 11; Donald, 9, and Valerie, 7.

Because the ice near the car was not strong enough for them to walk in unaided, the Murtha's police dog became the hero of the rescue. With a rope in his mouth, he fought his way to the car. The rope was tied around one of the children. With Mr. and Mrs. Murtha pulling, the child struggled and was dragged to safety. This operation was repeated until all were saved.

Mr. Murtha and the three children were present at the Light for Life Foundation ceremony. On this trip the Murtha family were guests of the Foundation.

Made Good Records

Pure Bred Holsteins At Round Top Farms Strutted Their Stuff

A report from the Holstein-Friesian Association of America shows that four pure bred Holstein cows from the Round Top Farms, Damariscotta, have recently finished lactation records in the herd improvement test. Roto Bess Burke Shepard Lass 1568338 freshening at the age of five years and one month, produced 11690 pounds of milk and 423.6 pounds of fat in 278 days. She is sired by De CreamCo Bess Burke Pobes 13th 538815 who has 20 daughters with an average of 11560 pounds of milk and 435.0 pounds of fat on Mature B basis.

The dam, Roto Shepard Twick Alcartra 762241 also has a number of tested daughters. The second Holstein, Roto Inka Dutch Shepard 1721660, two years and 11 months old, produced 11075 pounds of milk and 407.1 pounds of fat in 337 days. Her sire is Sir Inka Letta 557244. Roto Louise Roxie 1600873, freshening at four years, produced 13893 pounds of milk and 456.3 pounds of fat in 309 days. She is sired by Canary Korn-dyke Finderna (85160CHB) 653092 who has 17 tested daughters averaging on Mature B basis 17410 pounds of milk and 569.0 pounds of fat.

The fourth cow completing a lactation record at this time is Togus De Kol 1557437, a senior four years old. She is credited with 11360 pounds of milk and 389.1 pounds of fat in 260 days. Her sire is Major Konigan Soldene 555632 and her dam Togus Colantha De Kol Diana 1163669. All of these cows were tested on twice a-day milking (Class C).

The Holstein-Friesian herd test is the most popular form of testing for production records with Holstein breeders and more than 500 herds including 15,000 cows are now on test. The records of the different herds are published annually in the Red Book, making them available to Holstein breeders throughout United States. This test includes every cow in the herd and continues year after year supplying information of great value in culling out the low producers and in developing a sound breeding program to raise the levels of production. The average production for Holstein cows and heifers of all ages in the herd test last year was approximately two and one-half times the general average for the dairy cows of the country.

DR. ALBERT P. HEALD

Albert Parsons Heald was born in Searsmont, Maine, February 14, 1861, the son of Dexter and Abigail (Gardner) Heald and the youngest of their twelve children; he was the last surviving member of the family. He attended the public schools in Searsmont till on the death of his mother when he was fourteen he left home to go to Butter Island in Penobscot Bay. There he worked on a farm for Captain Rodney Witherspoon for several summers, during the school year attending school in Rockport and working there, and graduating from Camden High School in 1882. He entered the University of Vermont, meantime teaching in the schools of West Dedham, Deer Isle, and Young's Corner, Lincolnville, and working on a railroad construction job near Bangor.

Upon graduating from the Medical College of the University of Vermont in 1884, he practiced for a short time with Doctor Jackson of Jefferson. For another short period in Washington, then in Union for several years, leaving in 1890 to come to Thomaston, his home till his death.

Last January while making an emergency call on a patient he was seriously injured by a fall on an icy crossing; this was followed by a severe attack of influenza, and since that time his health failed. Oct. 27 he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, and he died Nov. 2.

His first wife was Susie (Fossett) Burbank of Union, who died in 1924. Of their three children, the little daughter Muriel and an infant son died; the daughter Gladys survives him with her second wife, Jane Rider Heald, whom he married in 1925.

He was a member of St. John the Baptist Episcopal Church in Thomaston, of the Alumni Association of the University of Vermont, keeping his deep interest in that University all his life; of the Knox County and the Maine Medical Associations, and a Fellow of the American Medical Association, receiving his fifty-year medal from the Maine Medical Association in 1934.

Always he was a student and a worker; reading and studying by candlelight, one recalls who knew him in boyhood. He continued a student in his busy years as a practicing physician, devoted to his profession and to the community he served faithfully and well where he will be remembered with gratitude and affection.

The Order for the Burial of the Dead of the Episcopal Church was said by Reverend Ernest Ogden Kenyon of Rockland at a private service at the home Friday morning at eight o'clock, and the body was taken to Forest Hills in Boston by J. Russell Davis for cremation, thus carrying out the express request of the Doctor. The committal service was said by Father Kenyon Saturday afternoon at four o'clock when the ashes were laid in the family lot in the Thomaston cemetery.

"Singing Towers"

America Leads the World In the Use of "Memory Bells"

Add "memory bells" to Poe's poetic list of sleigh bells, wedding bells, funeral bells, alarm bells, and assorted tintinnabulations. Completion of the Northcott Memorial Singing Tower in Luray, Virginia, will add one more instance of a memorial function in the United States for mass bell-ringing which all began back in the Netherlands as alarm and time signals.

"The Luray carillon is the second in Virginia, the other being a World War memorial in Richmond. It starts the New World on the second half of a hundred of these Old World 'singing towers' whose voices are bells," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

United States Now Has World's Largest

"Now the United States has more complete carillons in use than any other country. In Belgium and the Netherlands, where medieval clockstriking on a large scale grew to be the world's weightiest musical instrument, the carillon, a number of singing towers have lost their voices because of war, lightning, or age.

"Christmas-card style of riotously swinging bells has no place in these modern carillons. Each bell hangs 'dead,' bolted motionless in place. Its tethered tongue is poised by wires near the out-curving bell lip, ready to bong forth its one musical note in response to the carillon's tug on the wires via a keyboard.

"All American carillons, as opposed to that more primitive form of bell music, the chimes, have at least 23 bells of graduated size. Chimes may have from four to a dozen tones, and lack the more precise tuning of carillon bells. Small bells, sometimes in pairs for double volume, take care of high thinking notes; and large ones running into real tonnage look after the heavy booming. Of Luray's 47 bells, the smallest soprano weighs 10 pounds, the big bass four tons. A real giant, however, is the 20-ton bass in New York City probably the largest 'singing' bell in the world.

Massachusetts Has Most Carillons

"The United States now has the largest carillons in the world. Average number in the battalion of bells composing the American carillon is about 42. But the Riverside Church in New York City has 72 bells to shower their ringing notes down into the nearby canyons of apartment houses whenever traffic lulls permit audibility. The same number bells peal across the campus of the University of Chicago. One less is contained in the bell chorus of the Bok Singing Tower of Mountain Lake, Florida, where concerts float down from the sky to drown out bird songs of the surrounding wild life sanctuary.

"Next in number to these three mammoth bell regiments is the Richmond carillon, with 66 bronze throats to join in the mechanical song. Also numbering over 60 bells are the carillons of Cranbrook, Michigan; the Methodist Church tower of Philadelphia; the Scottish Rite Cathedral of Indianapolis; and the Trinity Church of Springfield, Massachusetts.

"Massachusetts is the 'ringingest' State in the Union, with seven carillons, according to the most complete bell census. The first in the nation, the Singing Tower of the Church of Our Lady of Good Voyage in Gloucester still rings out the departing fisherman and rings in his return. In addition to the giant carillon, Springfield has a smaller platoon of bells at Hillcrest. The academic air of Andover resounds with the chiming melodies of Phillips Academy Carillon. Cohasset, Wellesley, and Norwood also have singing towers.

"Like Andover, which had the first school carillon, and Wellesley, some of the other institutions with bells songs to speed the parting study hour are Princeton, the University of Michigan, and the University of Wisconsin; Duke University at Durham, North Carolina; the Mercersburg Pennsylvania; Trinity College, in Hartford, Connecticut; and the Ward-Belmont School in Nashville, Tennessee. The Iowa State Agricultural College of Ames, Iowa, has converted an old set of chimes into a carillon. Small Alfred University of Alfred, New York, has assembled a set of fine old bells from 17th and 18th century carillons of the Netherlands. The State Agricultural College in Storrs, Connecticut, has a carillon house in a local church spire.

"A carillon in a hospital is an unusual feature of Rochester, Minnesota."

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you don't, you're eating, or at least thinking you're eating, but you're not digesting. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain, or sour stomach.

You feel full, sick and upset all over. You can't eat more, but you're hungry. It's dangerous and foolish. It takes time to make the stomach digest food properly. You can't eat in 24 hours and get your food out. Relief is so quick it is amazing and the 25c package costs less. Ask for Bellan's Indigestion. Sold everywhere. (c) Bell & Co. 1937.

Sail The High Seas

C.-G. Club Members and Other Boys Have Adventures By Proxy

A substitute for that urge to go adventuring possessed by all healthy, normal boys, is found in the adventure stories of The American Boy Magazine, reading companion of hundreds of thousands of boys.

Through the medium of The American Boy, boys sail the high seas, go exploring in the frozen North, hunt big game in the jungles, join the Mounted Police in their search for criminals, accompany pilots on hazardous air journeys—in fact, participate in all the activities of modern business and science. The heroic fiction characters that guide the boy-readers along their royal road of adventure are the sort of fellows with whom boys should associate, clean, wholesome characters that serve as models after which boys shape their own lives.

Teachers, librarians, parents, leaders of boys' groups are enthusiastic in their endorsement of The American Boy. They have found that American Boy stories tend to satisfy the boys' longing to roam, give him a clear understanding of the various types of people he will encounter when he steps out into the business world.

Subscription prices for The American Boy are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign subscriptions are 50c a year extra. On newsstands, The American Boy sells for 15c a copy. To subscriber, send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

In connection with The American Boy, it may interest Courier-Gazette readers to know that this newspaper thinks highly enough of the magazine to subscribe to it for each of its 12 carriers, members of The C.-G. Club.

Twenty-five points toward a letter were given to those girls who attended the practices with credit during the season. Miss Martelle Hamilton of Damariscotta was among those who received these.

There was an archery tournament yesterday for all those women who have succeeded in entering and keeping in the Columbia Rounds. They were divided into a Green and White Team. This is a custom of the Normal School Sports for women to divide its players who have proved to be the best into two even teams at the end of the season for purposes of competition.

A delightful tea was sponsored by the Junior Class Art students Thursday of last week at their annual art exhibition. Among those who were on the committee for serving the tea were the Misses Ruth Geale, Waldoboro, Evelyn Knight, Lincolnville. Among the hostesses were the Misses Vera Blake of East Boothbay, Catherine Chisholm and Rose Flanagan of Rockland. This exhibition was public. Many fine art projects done by Juniors were on display. There was a large attendance.

Arthur Dee of Sheepscot and Miss Evelyn Lord of Ogunquit were in charge of a joint meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Association on Thursday. They had as their guest speaker Miss Edith Lelirig, secretary of Student Christian Movement. She came directly from Bates College where she had been a guest speaker.

Women's Basketball practice started Tuesday. At that time also a course in refereeing women's basketball began.

H. N. Pringle of the International Reform Federation spoke to the Gorham Normal School students in Chapel yesterday. He was formerly of the Maine Christian Civic League. He spoke on a phase of his federation work.

Today will be the seventh annual superintendent's day at Gorham Normal, sponsored by the Civic Committee, the student governing board. Several from Knox and Lincoln Counties are on the committee. Among those on the tea committee are Misses Louise Egle of Lincolnville, Vera Blake of East Boothbay, Agnes Bickford of Damariscotta, and Catherine Chisholm, Rose Flanagan, and Muriel McPhee of Rockland, and Roberta Holbrook of Rockport. Coffee committee: Misses Hilda McLain of Pemaquid Beach, Ruth Harper and Fern Brown of Rockland, Evelyn Brown and Evelyn Knight of Camden. Miss Rose Flanagan also worked on the program committee.

A chosen delegation left Friday from the Normal School to attend the Second annual Conference of the New England Teacher Training Institutions, in Boston. The student delegation consisted of Miss Hilda McLain of Pemaquid Beach and Kevin Ellis of Augusta to represent the fourth year seniors; Miss Edith Rossborough of Hollis Center and Charles Loomis of Portland to represent the 3rd year seniors; Miss Anne Welton of West Parisfield and Ralph Hanson of Sanford to represent the juniors. Several members of the faculty also attended this convention.

Dr. Walter E. Russell went to the superintendent's convention; Dean Nellie Jordan and Miss Flint were to attend women's activities meetings; and Mr. Weiden and Mr. Jensen went to attend the Physical Education and Coaches' meeting.

Mr. Woodward announced that the entertainments covered by our blanket tax are to begin Nov. 16. The first entertainment will consist of a concert by a trio including a soprano, trumpeter, and pianist.

The orchestra is beginning work on its plan to take part in an educational radio program to be given over WCHS in the near future.

The Cross Country Team journeyed to Farmington Saturday. Those who went were E. Jess; W. Carey; K. Hobbs; S. Reed; G. Mee; Burton Curtis, Donald Knapton.

The Library Club is giving a Chapel program Wednesday, in honor of Book Week. Miss Margaret Johnston of Scarborough is in charge.

Practice peaching appointments for third year seniors are to be made next week.

Unemployment Census

Cards Will Go Out Nov. 16 —Postmaster Moran Completes Plans

Postmaster Edward C. Moran and his staff are busy completing arrangements for distribution of National Unemployment Census cards, 10,000 of which will go out of the local office by regular carriers November 16. The taking of this census, which is being done throughout the country by regular post office personnel puts an extra job on their hands.

The number of unemployed will be determined from information secured by a voluntary individual registration. The plan introduced by Congress and given the support of President Roosevelt, is also being backed by representative citizen committees in 16,000 cities and towns. The committee will collaborate with the various postmasters, and give necessary assistance to assure a complete and accurate registration. Tabulations of resulting data will be made by the Bureau of Census of the Department of Commerce. The many technical problems that will undoubtedly arise will be taken care of by the Central Statistical Board, Washington, D. C.

Registration on the unemployed card is not an application for a job. Individual jobs will not be provided in this way. Congress directed the census to be taken to provide information, to aid in the formulation of a program for reemployment, and unemployment relief.

Individual Registration

Each person in every family should fill out and return an individual Unemployment Report Card to the post office if he is included in any of the groups described in the following paragraph entitled "Persons Who Should Register." An adequate supply of cards should be made available upon request. In order to assure the inclusion in the census of each person who should register.

Persons Who Should Register

All persons who are totally unemployed, able to work, and want work. Included in this group are persons who have worked for pay, who are able to work, and still want work; persons who formerly had their own business, farms, or professional practice, and no longer work at it, who are able to work, and want work; persons now looking for their first jobs.

All persons who are partly employed, able to do more work, and want more work. Included in this group are persons working part time at regular jobs, who are able to do more work, and want more work; persons employed part time on irregular work (including casual workers) who are able to do more work, and want more work.

All persons working full time or part time on projects of WPA, NYA, CCC, or other emergency work projects which are supported by public funds. Included in this group are persons working on Works Progress Administration projects or on emergency projects of other federal agencies under the Works Program; enrollees working in CCC camps; persons employed on NYA work projects; persons receiving NYA student aid; and persons working on emergency work projects conducted by state or local governments as part of a work relief program.

Persons Who Should Not Register

The following groups of employed persons should NOT fill out and return Unemployment Report Cards. Persons working full time for wages or commissions, or persons who devote full time to their own business, farm, or professional practice; persons who are working part time (except on emergency work projects which are supported by public funds) and who do not want more work; persons who are on strike unless actively seeking another job; persons who are temporarily sick or disabled but have a full time job to which they will return as soon as they get well; persons who are on vacation or are taking time off from a job to which they will return; administrative employees of WPA, NYA, CCC, or other agencies which are conducting emergency work projects which are supported by public funds.

Other groups specifically excluded from registration are persons who are unable to work because of permanent disability or chronic illness; persons who have retired or who do not want work; young persons excluded from work because of state child labor laws or local ordinances.

VA-TRO-NOL

Will Be Unopposed

But Brann Now Realizes That He Has No Easy Picking

A report from Washington is that the New Dealers are planning to enter a New Deal candidate in the Democratic primaries next June to contest the nomination of former Governor Brann as the party candidate for Governor.

I have been unable to find anyone among the Democratic leaders of Maine who has ever heard anything of the kind although I would not be surprised if it were true for while the Democratic chieftains at the Capitol may be keen and alert in their appreciation of politics in other parts of the Nation, they have shown themselves in the past to be singularly dull in comprehending the political psychology of Maine.

What happened was that when it came to patronage Mr. Moran was the white haired boy from Maine with the administration and there was a disposition to ignore Governor Brann. This situation went on for some time and resulted in considerable feeling between the Rockland statesman and the Governor which the latter at least took no pains to conceal.

If anyone wanted anything in Maine it came to be understood that Mr. Moran was the man to be seen and that Gov. Brann did not have much to say about it. Mr. Farley was in this along with the others. For some reason, he failed to understand that the Governor was the Democratic party in Maine and that the two Congressmen were more or less accidental.

Apparently Mr. Farley was the first to see his mistake. During his second term the Governor began to come into his own as the head of his party in this State. A little blind at first, due perhaps to his proximity to the Congressmen, the national chairman came to see that if there was any hope for his party in Maine, Gov. Brann was the mainstay.

Then came the election of a year ago in September. Gov. Brann had had two terms and did not want to try for another. After some urging he did consent to serve as a candidate for United States Senator, while National Committeeman F. Harold Dubord took his turn to run for Governor. The Governor had no idea he would be elected a Senator and except for the fact that like anyone else he wanted to win once he had got into a fight, he didn't care much if he didn't win.

He has always said that he did not want to go to Washington and he was probably pleased rather than otherwise that he was not elected. It is history that Mr. Dubord was defeated for Governor by over 43,000 plurality, while Brann for Senator missed out by about 4500.

If anything was needed to open the eyes of the political pundits at Washington, this should have done it. It did in the case of Mr. Farley and everyone around here supposed that it did in the case of the other head centers in the party in Washington. If the story is true about the New Dealers wanting someone other than Mr. Brann to run for Governor next year, they apparently didn't. It is well understood in Democratic circles in this State that Mr. Farley is very anxious to carry Maine next September on account of the effect such a victory would have on the rest of the country.

There is very good authority for stating that it was Mr. Farley who induced Mr. Brann to become a candidate for Governor for a third time. There is reason to believe that the chairman promised the Maine man plenty of financial assistance, not only during the campaign but during the preliminaries of the campaign.

The reception which the Sales Tax passed by the Legislature met when it was put up to the people made it look rather bad for the Republican party. The Governor was responsible for the tax only in that he signed the act, but he had to bear in chief part the odium of it all. I know that Mr. Brann felt very confident of winning in the next election, and a good many Republicans felt the same way he did about it.

Republicans were as quick to see this as anyone, and the leaders made up their minds that something must be done to change it. It was this decision that resulted in the call for the extra session issued by the Governor designed to provide the funds for paying the old age benefits and helping out the schools. Of course, calling the session didn't clear things up, but the session itself did and put Gov. Barrows on top again, as everyone knows.

Former Governor Brann realizes as well as anyone else, that that is the present situation and I think he believes, although he never said so to me, that his chance now is that subsequent Republican blunders will put him back in the running again.

I am not so sure that if the Maine New Dealers did take any steps to oppose the renomination of the former Governor but that he would gracefully retire from the field and tell them to go as far as they liked. Democrats as well as Republicans in this State realize that there is little or no New Deal sentiment in Maine. Gov. Brann is not a New Dealer himself, although he does not make a great deal of talk about it, and he realizes of course, that to espouse the New Deal doctrine as a candidate for office in this State would cost him votes rather than make any for him. As I have said, I don't know who the New Dealers are who are thinking of asserting themselves in this State, but if there are any I think it will be found that their addresses are Washington rather than Maine.

A report which came to me from Waldo County was that Mrs. Grace W. Church who represented Searsport class in the Legislature last winter, would run for Senator in the primaries, whether Mr. Fernald did so or not. Mr. Farwell said that he had not heard of this although he said that he thought it might be true. Representative Church is not pro-Fernald and by reason of that the present Senator has entered a candidate for Representative in the Searsport class against her.

The Fernald nominee is Charles G. Worth of Stockton Springs. Mr. Worth is a friend of Senator Fernald's and has interested himself much in promoting the Senator's political ambitions. Another communication from Senator Fernald to me gives the information that at the regular meeting of the Winterport Chamber of Commerce it was unanimously voted to support Mr. Worth for Republican nomination for representative in the Legislature. Senator Fernald is president of the Chamber of Commerce, as the letter head shows.

U. S. MARINES REACH NEW MILESTONE

By Loren T. Casey

The gallant deeds of its New England forebears will be recalled by the U. S. Marine Corps when that branch of the service observes its 162nd anniversary on November 10.

Although a Corps of Marines was authorized by the Continental Congress on that date in 1775, marines of the State navies, or citizens who served as sea soldiers, were already engaged in the early naval battles of the Revolution.

One of the first of these episodes occurred in May of that year, when the British ship Falcon captured two American sloops at Bedford, Mass., and the citizens of Bedford immediately fitted out two sloops with thirty men and recaptured the vessels.

Only a few weeks later the enemy vessel Margaretta and two sloops were seized at Machias, Me. by Jeremiah O'Brien and thirty-five sea soldiers, armed with pitchforks and a few firearms.

Marines of the Rhode Island Navy were aboard the Katy and Washington, when those ships chased ashore and destroyed an armed tender of the British frigate Rose on June 15, 1775, the first enemy vessel captured by a public armed vessel during this war.

Connecticut was quick to take part in the conflict and the first prize of a Connecticut State vessel was taken by the tiny schooner Spy in October, when she seized and brought to New London a large ship containing 8,000 bushels of wheat. Her marine officer was William Goldsmith.

After Ethan Allen's Green Mountain Boys of Vermont had captured Ticonderoga, in May, Connecticut marines and other troops from Albany, New York, went to the aid of the little garrison with money and reinforcements.

All of these episodes took place before a Corps of Marines was actually authorized, but they have their places in history. In subsequent years New England Marines have played a gallant part in the history of the nation while serving with the Corps.

Nearly 2,500 men from the New England States alone served with the U. S. Marines during the World War and valiant sons of these states have been represented in the ranks of the Corps from the days of Old Ironsides to the present time.

It is the proud boast of the Marines' Hymn that they "fight their country's battles on the land as on the sea," and their long list of exploits afloat and ashore justifies this claim.

In many battles of the Revolution, the War of 1812, Mexican, Civil and Spanish-American Wars, sea soldiers were present and doing their heroic part. During the World War they were with our fleet in the North Sea, flew their planes with the Northern Bombing Squadron, and etched their names deeply in the thrilling saga of Belleau Wood, Soissons, St. Mihiel, Champagne and the Meuse-Argonne.

At times they have helped to suppress piracy in the Mediterranean or Caribbean, battled brigands in Formosa and Sumatra, stormed the barrier forts of Canton, stalked Indians in our own country, or routed insurgents from their hiding places in the Philippines, Haiti, Santo Domingo or Nicaragua. They have even fought savages in the jungles of the Fiji Islands.

Often they have engaged in diplomatic or rescue missions, speeding to the aid of beleaguered Americans in China during the Boxer trouble in 1900, landing at Alexandria, Egypt to protect Europeans in 1882, rushing to the Island of Martinique in 1902 to rescue survivors of the Mount Pelée disaster, and a year later journeying to Ethiopia to visit King Menelik.

Their operations on foreign soil include nearly 200 occasions when "The Marines have landed and have the situation well in hand," apart from their service in France, the Philippines or frequent landing on our own West Coast during the Mexican War.

Only recently reinforcements were rushed to Shanghai to protect American lives and property. But that is an old, old story to the sea soldiers. On at least seventeen other occasions they have landed in China on errands for Uncle Sam, and their last departure for the Orient created no ripple in their ranks.

Small wonder that the Marines may look back upon their long and famous history of service to the nation with a touch of pride, a pride which is fully justified by their record of accomplishments in all parts of the globe.

Brewer Murder Case

Lincoln County Man May Receive Sentence At Wiscasset Today

The final chapter in the Brewer murder case will be written at the term of the Superior Court for Lincoln County which opens today. Reuben Brewer, convicted of slaying his pretty wife, Dolda Medina Brewer, his appeal for a new trial denied by the Supreme Judicial Court, will have the only possible sentence for murder, that of life imprisonment at hard labor pronounced upon him.

Brewer, lobsterman and small storekeeper at the popular Ocean Point summer colony of Boothbay was tried and convicted in May of last year of killing his wife, whose body in April was found near the Brewer home of the shore just above high tide.

Convicted of murder after a sensational trial, his counsel, Burleigh Martin of Augusta and Frank A. Tirrell of Rockland appealed and filed motions for a new trial, which the Supreme Court denied.

Brewer has been in Augusta jail since his conviction awaiting return of the case by the higher court. He will be brought into court for sentence, probably today.

AGAIN WE SAY "THANKS"

North Haven, Nov. 7.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— I was much impressed by the article by Frank Beverage which appeared in the Nov. 6 issue. I agree with him in every statement. I think the reason we haven't appreciated this fact concerning the cleanliness of our home paper, The Courier-Gazette, is the same reason we don't appreciate our other blessings. We just take them as a matter of fact and do not go below the surface to discover the sacrifice others are making that we may enjoy them. It is just human nature if that can be called an excuse.

For one I want to thank The Courier-Gazette for the stand it has taken. Perhaps having a liquor store so near might have something to do with it.

HOLLYWOOD STAR-LITES
(By Chuck Cochard)

Hollywood—(Exclusive)—The color fever has hit an all-time peak this week with every studio clamoring for more features to be filmed in Technicolor. The main reason is that for the first time the actual colors can be reproduced on the screen successfully. The cost however is still very high. Warner Bros. have four Technicolor specials lined up, each to cost in excess of $1,000,000. Two of them are "Robin Hood" and "Gold is Where You Find It."

Samuel Goldwyn is filming his million dollar "Goldwyn Follies" in color. Paramount is just releasing its million dollar show "Ebb Tide," which is all-color.

Even London has caught this Hollywood fever for word reaches us that Charles Laughton's next picture "Jamaica Inn" will be filmed in Technicolor.

The movie-going public is gradually being educated to like color films and it won't be long before the black and white films will lose their appeal.

STARTLES RADIO

SHEILA BARRETT, master of mimicry, threw a bombshell into the radio world when she dared to burlesque radio on her Sunday evening program over a coast to coast NBC network. For two successive weeks her characterizations poked fun at radio, once when she gave her impressions of radio announcers and again when she did a burlesque on that type of radio program which is loaded with commercial announcements.

are forgotten because she has just signed a new two-picture deal with M-G-M. Her latest "Conquest," which will be released "Madame Walewska" in Europe, is her best.

Articles in local newspapers reported that the Egyptian government has a plan to lease the pyramids for advertising. Jock Lawrence, publicity director for Samuel Goldwyn, wired the Egyptian envoy in Washington asking rates for pyramid space, preferred space, to announce the world release of "The Adventures of Marco Polo." It will be put in Neon lights.

The newest comedy team of the screen is Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell. M-G-M plans to build the pair. They will be co-starred in a new picture which will follow "Live, Love and Learn."

Soft looking couches and beds in pictures are really very hard because it is difficult to look graceful sitting down on a soft mattress. . . . When you see a fountain in the movies look closely and see if you can spot a glass tube through which the water is spouting. This is done so that
